The Loganian Library.

THIS valuable collection, consisting principally of books in the learned languages, was begun by the late JAMES LOGAN, whose enlarged mind induced him to provide for extending to others the means of those pursuits he had himself successfully cultivated. With this view, he built a suitable house for the reception of a library; and, by deed, vested it (with the books he had collected, and certain rents for the purpose of increasing their number and supporting a Librarian) in Trustees, for the use of the public, forever; this deed he afterwards cancelled, and prepared, but did not live to execute, another, in which some alteration was made in the funds and regulations. After he died, his children and residuary legatees conveyed the whole estate, intended by him, to Trustees, who caused the books, amounting to more than two thousand volumes, to be arranged in the building prepared for their reception, and a catalogue of them to be printed.

About one thousand three hundred volumes, collected by the late Dr. WILLIAM LOGAN, of Bristol, and WILLIAM LOGAN, of Philadelphia, have since been devised to the institution, by the latter gentleman, who acted acted as Librarian. After his death, in 1776, the library remained unopened during several years, until the Legislature of Pennsylvania, at the request of JAMES LOGAN, the only surviving Trustee, passed the act for annexing the Loganian Library to that belonging to the Library Company of Philadelphia; which act constitutes the Directors of that Company, for the time being, Trustees, together with the eldest male heir of the late JAMES LOGAN, and two other gentlemen, to be, by such heir, appointed. Since which the house, built by JAMES LOGAN, has been sold, and a handsome addition made to the Philadelphia Library for keeping the books of the Loganian Library, which was opened on the first of May, 1794, for the benefit of the citizens, agreeably to the intentions of the donor, and pursuant to the directions of the act of Assembly.

to the Library belonging to the Library Company of Philadelphia, and for other purposes therein mentioned.*

WHEREAS James Logan, formerly of Stenton, in the county of Philadelphia, Esquire, influenced by the patriotic desire of extending the benefits of learning among his fellow citizens, by deed, bearing date the eighth day of March, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, conveyed to certain trustees, therein named, a lot of ground, situate on the west side of Sixth-street, in the city of Philadelphia, between Chestnut and Walnut-streets, with the building thereon erected, and a large and valuable collection of books, for the use of the inhabitants of the city of Philadelphia; and for the support of the said institution, by the same deed, he vested in the said trustees certain rents charge therein described, and reserved to himself the right of altering or cancelling the said deed; and afterwards proposing to settle other rents charge, and appoint other trustees for the same purposes, he cancelled the said deed, and partly prepared another, which he did not live to complete; and by his last will and testament, bearing date the twenty-fifth day of November, one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, the said James Logan reserved from his residuary estate, and devised the two rents charge thereafter mentioned, declaring them to be intended for the use of the said institution; and since his death, William Logan and James Logan, sons of James Logan aforesaid, John Smith and Hannah his wife, the said Hannah Smith being the surviving daughter of James Logan, the elder, and the said William Logan

Preamble

Preamble. Logan, James Logan and John Smith, being the surviving executors of his last will and testament, induced by the same laudable motives, and desirous of carrying the intention of their father into effect, by deed, bearing date the twenty-eighth day of August, in the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-four, between the said parties, on the one part, and Israel Pemberton, junior, William Allen, Richard Peters, and Benjamin Franklin, of the other part, conveyed to, and vested in, the said Israel Pemberton, junior, William Allen, Richard Peters, and Benjamin Franklin, their heirs and assigns, to the use of the said William Logan, James Logan, John Smith, Israel Pemberton, junior, William Allen, Richard Peters, and Benjamin Franklin, their heirs and assigns for ever, in trust for the purposes hereafter mentioned, the messuage and lot of ground before mentioned, situate on the west side of Sixth-street, between Chesnut and Walnut-streets, in the city of Philadelphia, in the said deed particularly described, with all and singular the books therein deposited, according to the catalogue thereof, the uses and trusts of which settlement were in substance as follow: that is to say, " That there should be a perpetual succession of trustees, part of whom should be of the descendants of the said James Logan, the elder, preferring the male line to the female, as long as any of his descendants remained; that one of his male descendants, taken in priority of birth, and preferring the male line to the female line, should be Librarian of the said public Library, with a power of employing deputies; that the library should be opened for the public use of the citizens, and that books might be borrowed thereout, under certain restrictions;" and for supporting the expence of the institution,
